SHRUTI SHEREKAR

Business Design Specialist - IAG

Hi, I'm Shruti! I started my tech journey back in university when I decided to take Information Systems as one of my majors. I decided to do a double degree with a Bachelor of Commerce and a Bachelor of Science - I wanted to have that science and information element because I wanted to learn a bit more about technology while understanding business and commerce, and how things work together. I am now working as a Business Design Specialist, so managing a team that builds software and solutions for the business, making sure that we take all the business needs and concerns into account, and design something technologically that is more aligned for the business. That's really where I see myself in the tech world, not so much as a developer, but someone who actually is solving business problems directly.

UPDATE ON SHE#

On the 18th of March, we celebrated International Women's Day with MYOB. This was a highly successful event as our first event in partnership with our new sponsors. Although it had to be postponed due to COVID-19 alert levels, we still had a good turn out, and fantastic discussion ensued on the night. Photos from the event are available here on our website. We were also part of the STEM expo at the Kiwibots Robotics Nationals and the MOTAT STEM Fair, where we got to meet the next generation of future tech leaders.
